3. Charter Legislation

25X1A On 25 April, [REDACTED] met with the DCI, the General Counsel and a representative of the Operations Directorate to discuss security related aspects of the draft CIA Charter Legislation. Of particular interest

25X1A

[REDACTED]

Also discussed was the scope permitted for Agency investigations of leaks of classified information. (U)

4. Firearms Authority Misfires

Hopes for a quick resolution of the currently imprecise legal foundation for the carrying of firearms by Agency personnel were dashed when the Intelligence Authorization Bill passed the Senate without the firearms legislation and other "riders." (U)

5. IG Looks at Recruitment Practices and Industrial Security

The Office of the Inspector General has begun an inspection of Agency recruitment practices. Although the Office of Personnel will be most deeply involved, Office of Security functions which relate to or support applicant processing are expected to be scrutinized as well. (AIUO)

The IG will also visit selected facilities of Agency industrial contractors to appraise the security situation and evaluate the OS Industrial Security Audit Program. (AIUO)

6. Cost Savings Exercise With A Familiar Ring

As part of an Agency-wide reduction of telephones, the Office of Security has been tasked to identify 22 telephones which can be given up. [REDACTED] urged all OS managers to answer the call with a concerted effort. (U)

8. FOIA Causes Problems

Mr. Carlucci has been working very hard in an attempt to obtain relief for the Agency from many of the disclosure requirements of the Freedom of Information Act. He has appeared before Congress to explain how classified material can be and is being gleaned from FOIA releases. The FBI has documented activities of foreign intelligence services in this area. Efforts are under way to schedule a presentation here by the Bureau on this topic in the near future. (C)

9. Delinquent Fitness Reports

25X1A

[REDACTED] Chief, Administrative Staff, reminded all supervisors to complete fitness reports as required when they or a subordinate transfers. Delays can hamper effective and timely personnel actions. (U)

10. Party for New Agents

A good time and a chance to meet new agents Brian, Eileen, Frank, Carol, Von, Becky and Lou are guaranteed on Friday, 4 May from 1730 to 1930 in the Executive Dining Room. Only $5.50 covers bar and buffet. Everyone is invited! (U)
